

Islanders are being encouraged to pledge just ten minutes a day to read for pleasure as part of a new Island-wide campaign launched by the Jersey Evening Post and Every Child Our Future

February

The JEP will be publishing a pull-out reading tracker every quarter that can be pinned to fridges or walls, allowing families and individuals to record their progress and turn reading into a visible, shared habit at home

Colour in a book each day, once you've done your 10 minutes of reading!

March

The Big Jersey Read is a year-long initiative designed to help children and adults alike rebuild a reading habit – shifting focus away from endless scrolling and towards deeper, more meaningful engagement with books, newspapers and magazines
